San Francisco, Nov. 26.—"What was the color of her hair?"

Virginia Rappe's old sweetheart, her first one, was on the stand and the State, which is trying to send Fatty Arbuckle to jail for being the direct or indirect cause of the girl's death, flung the question at him sharply and with a suddenness that made him jump.

His name, he said, was Harry P. Parker and the crowd that stuffed the courtroom and swirled in little nests in the corridors waiting to hear Fatty, whose turn on the stand, it was said, was soon to come, was rather glad to see this other man appear.

He Seemed Substantial

He was a substantial looking person; he looked like a good sort. What was far more important, he came from Illinois.

Now, the atmosphere of the court had become lurid with the testimony of a monotonous succession of witnesses, doctors, nurses and humble workers in the vineyard at Hollywood, called by the defense to prove that Virginia had been—well, not the very nicest girl in the world.

But every one who had read James Whitecomb Riley and Gene Field knew what a constant and tender thing sentimental memory is in Illinois, despite Chicago, and felt that Mr. Parker had appeared in the very nick of time. Good old Parker. It was slightly disconcerting to find him in the list of witnesses for the defense—it was Mr. McNab who summoned him, as, therefore, a member of what people hereabouts call the wrecking crew.

SUED FOR NON-SUPPORT, PLUMBER DENIES MARRIAGE

Woman Says Man Calling Himself Dr. Conwell Wed Them

Although he denies he ever married the young woman, Danie Graham, a plumber, 1822 Norris street, has been arrested on a charge of desertion and non-support made by Miss Mary Mallon, or Mrs. Daniel Graham, as she contends.

United Brethren Aid

The Second United Brethren, whose Sunday school is at Fifth and Arch and Catherine streets, have sent out 1000 pledge card and 1000 invitation to their centenary service. The Richard M. McNeil Presbyterian Church and the Memorial Methodist Church are also involved in the celebration.

Mr. Mallon yesterday denied from officials of the Marriage License Bureau that no license had been issued to Graham to wed Miss Mallon. Graham says Mrs. Mallon's assertions and ascertains his mother and daughter are trying to extort money from him.

The young woman, the morning after her marriage to the editor of the Graham's shop in March, 1919, said she never lived with Graham because of a difference in religious belief. She said she did not want her mother to learn of the marriage.

Mr. Mallon also stated that in June, 1919, Graham came to her and asked her to marry him again. She said as saying he had annoyed her, was told her she could not do so, and the marriage was off.
